FOREWORD

This yearbook is the story of the growth of our high school—a high school that has grown in spirit through the efforts of its faculty and students. For—be they Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, or Seniors—they are the high school. With their talents and ingenuities and abilities, the students have established a Lincoln High that will go on forever, always being the best, and for this they shall be remembered.

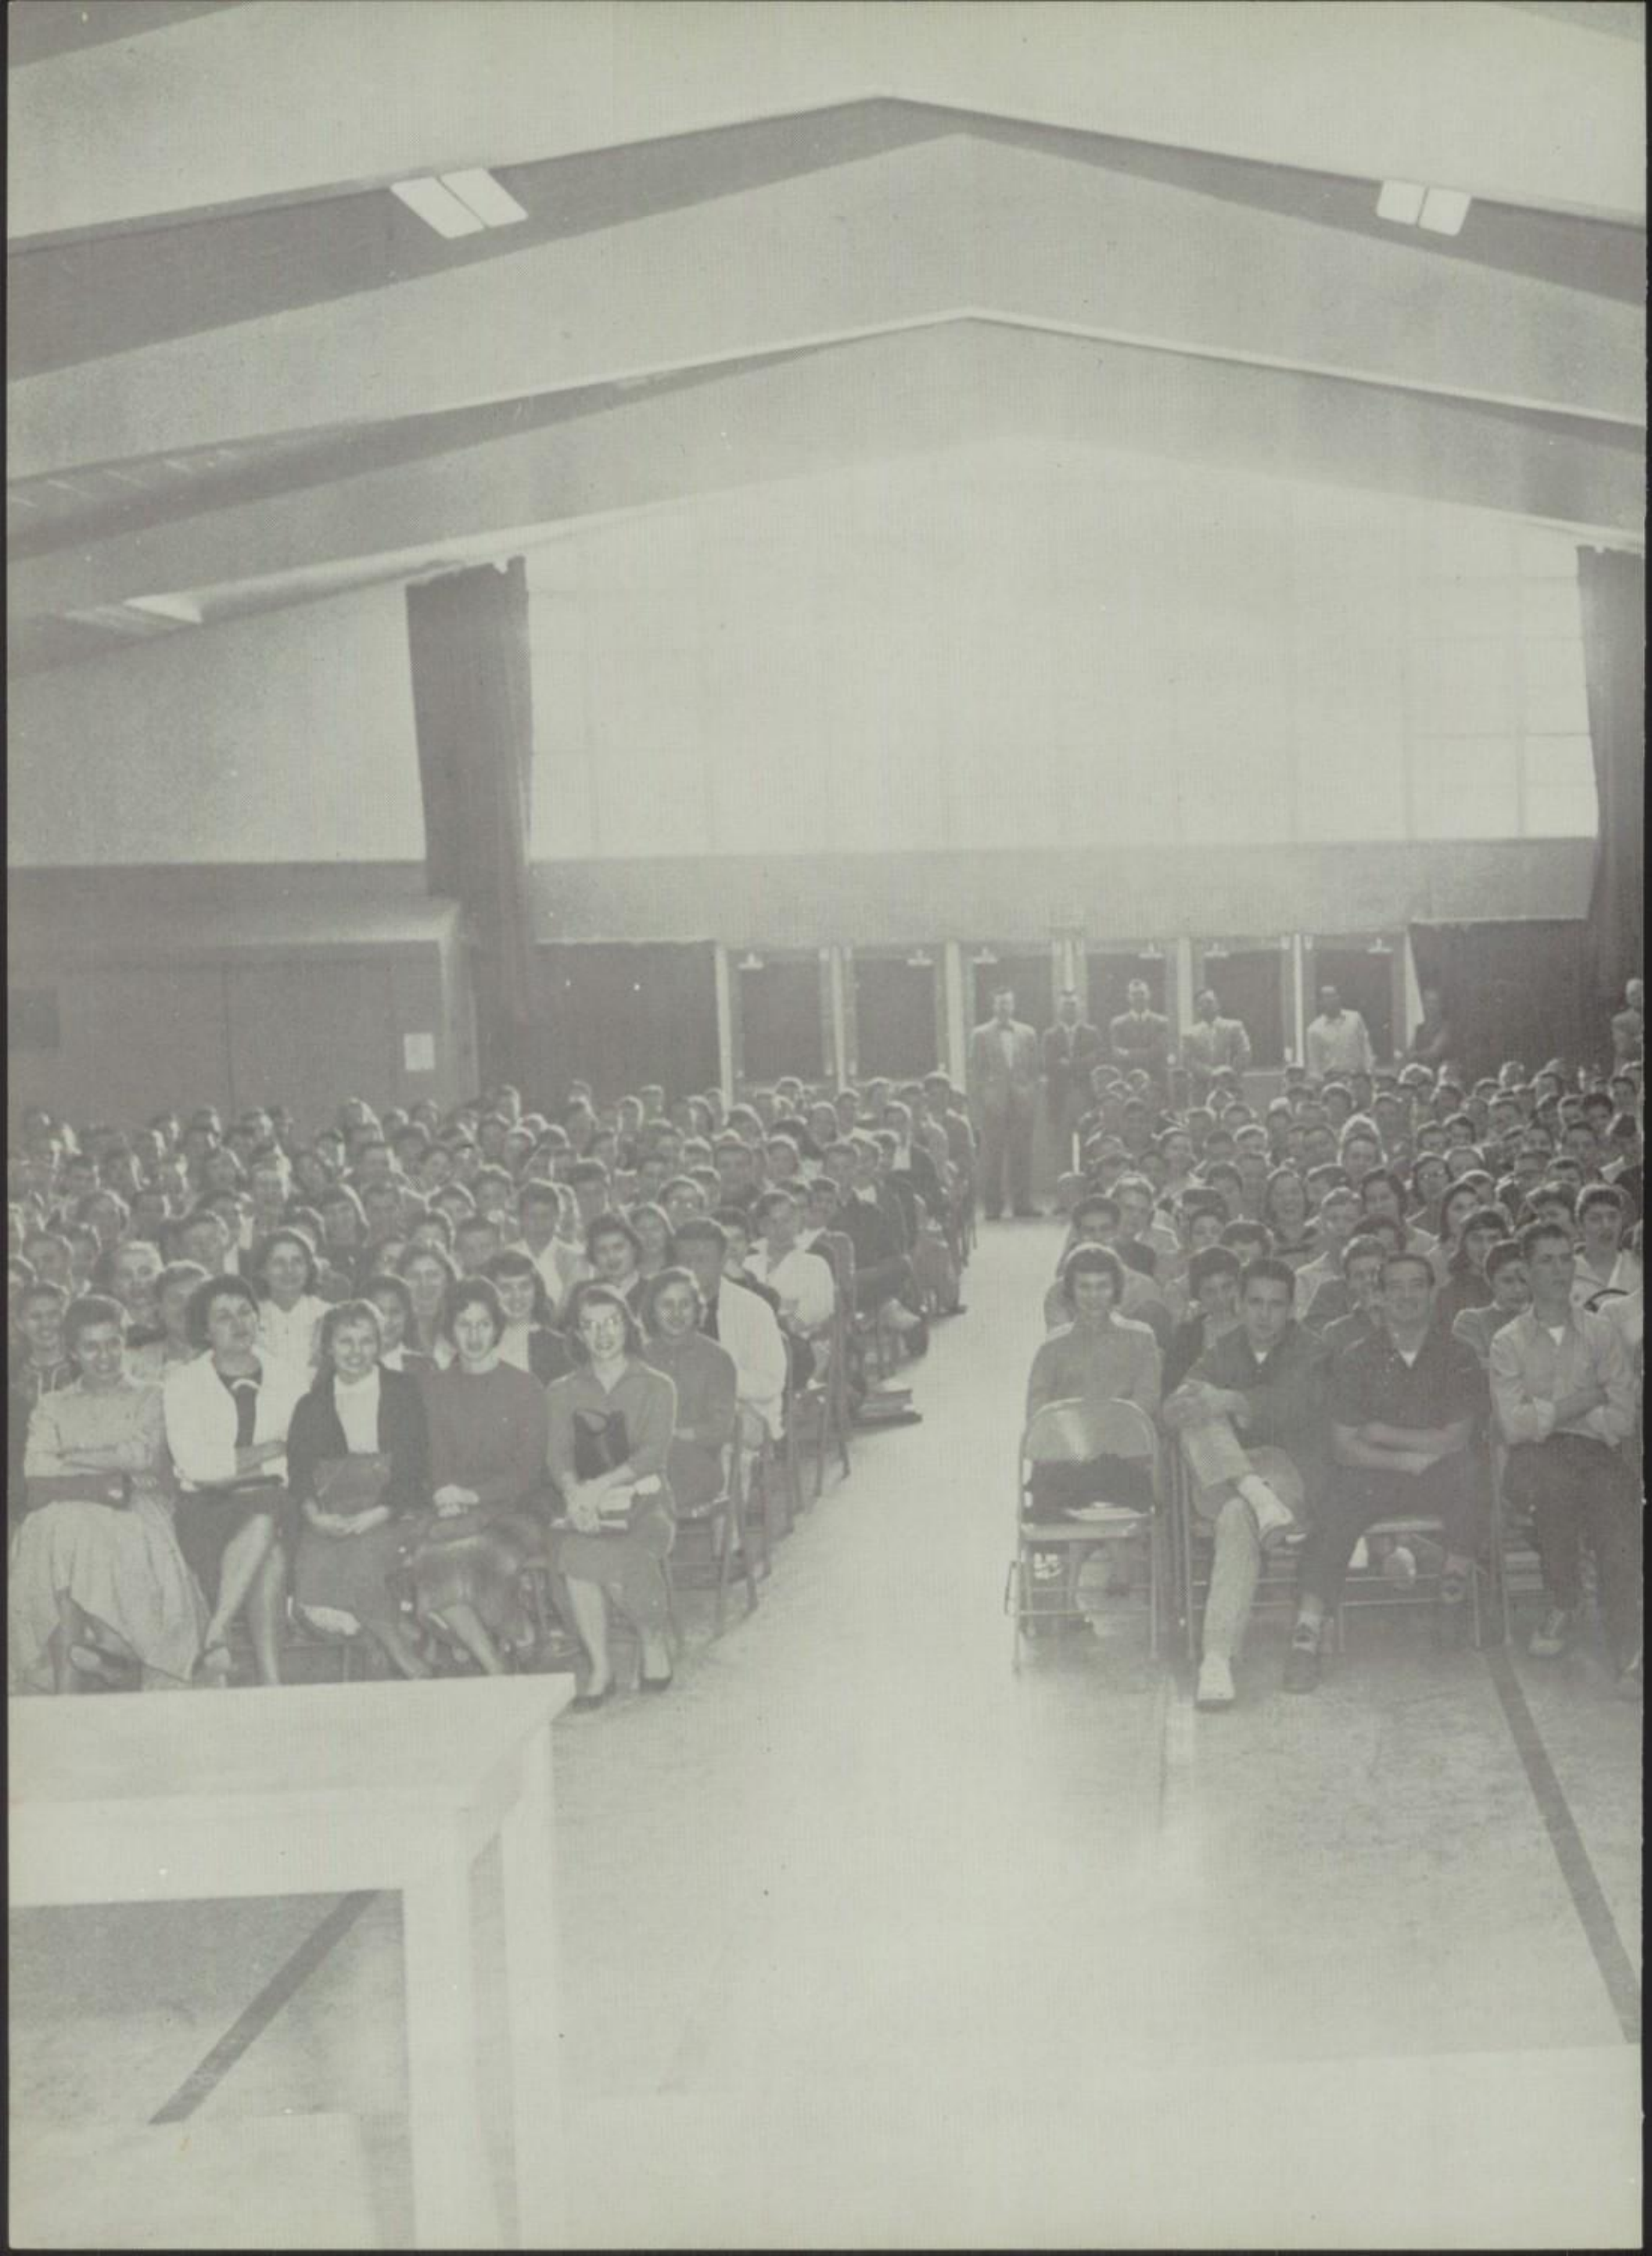

It all started with a dream—a dream of expanding the then-tiny Lincoln School into a school district offering both elementary and high school education. Mrs. Mable Barron first envisioned the expansion and for seven years she hoped, planned, and interested others in her idea.

Now, eight years later, after three years of high school tucked away in the campus of the College of the Pacific, upon seeing the beautiful new campus, she can truly be proud of her efforts—efforts that built our Lincoln High School.

To you, Mrs. Barron, we dedicate this yearbook, the Log, '58.

LEADERS

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Seated: Mr. Charles Richmond, Mr. Glen Thalhamer, and Mr. Paul Dean.
Standing: Mr. Norman Silva and Mr. Simpson Hornage.

These men worked long and hard to make their dream and our dream a reality. And they will work long into the future to see that the Lincoln School District is the best and has the best.

We, the students of Lincoln High School, are very grateful for all that our Board has done and here express our most sincere thanks.

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

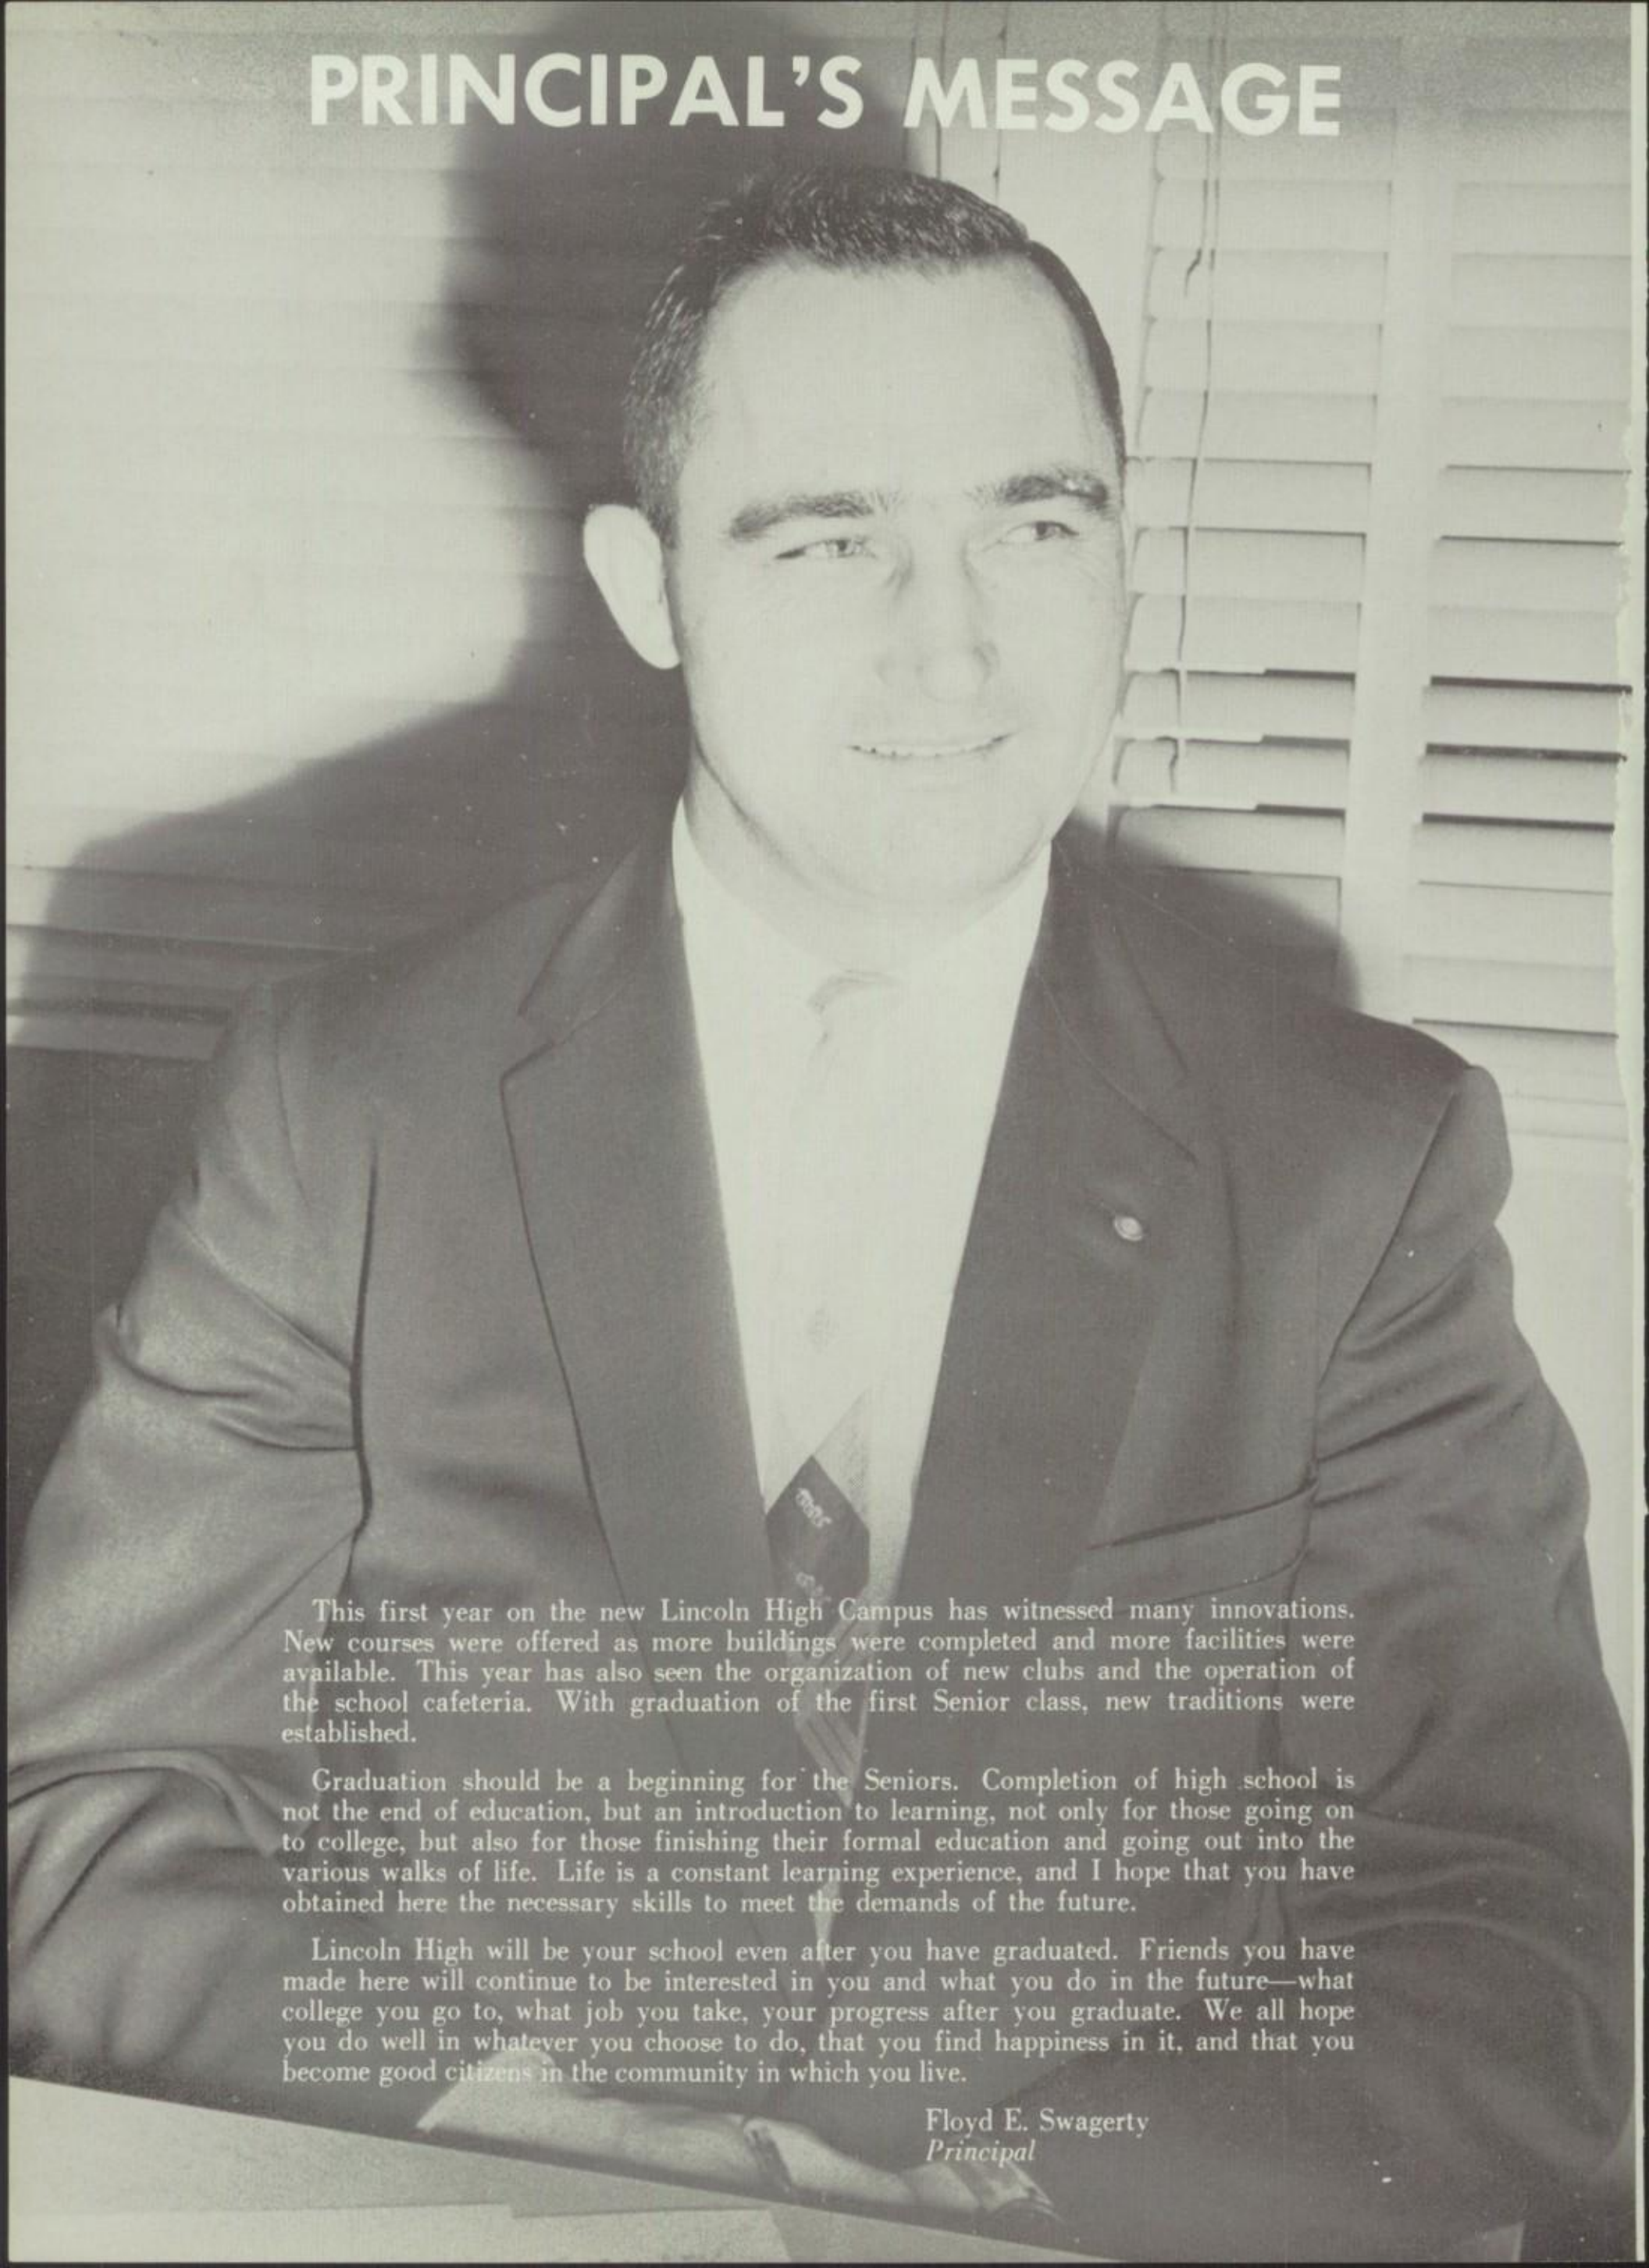

Living in a "dream that came true" has been our privilege this year. But it was a dream that has had a slow awakening. First the classrooms, then the auditorium, the cafeteria, the shops, the gymnasium, and the final landscaping of the grounds saw our new school—challenging our imaginations and giving impetus to our thinking. But we know it is not the end. Before the buildings were completed a new application was on its way for still more space, as needed by our growing community.

On the day of our dedication the Lincoln community looked with pride and high expectations both at the school and its students. Happiest people present were the members of the Senior class who have pioneered each phase of Lincoln High School development. My heartiest congratulations go to those young people who have worked hard to help make their dreams an actuality.

(Mrs.) Mable W. Barron
District Superintendent

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

This first year on the new Lincoln High Campus has witnessed many innovations. New courses were offered as more buildings were completed and more facilities were available. This year has also seen the organization of new clubs and the operation of the school cafeteria. With graduation of the first Senior class, new traditions were established.

Graduation should be a beginning for the Seniors. Completion of high school is not the end of education, but an introduction to learning, not only for those going on to college, but also for those finishing their formal education and going out into the various walks of life. Life is a constant learning experience, and I hope that you have obtained here the necessary skills to meet the demands of the future.

Lincoln High will be your school even after you have graduated. Friends you have made here will continue to be interested in you and what you do in the future—what college you go to, what job you take, your progress after you graduate. We all hope you do well in whatever you choose to do, that you find happiness in it, and that you become good citizens in the community in which you live.

Floyd E. Swagerty
Principal

DEAN OF MEN

Lincoln's "all-around man," Mr. Donald Buck, has been with the school since its beginning four years ago. Besides being Dean of Boys, Mr. Buck is Vice Principal, teacher, and club advisor.

He has three advanced math classes—Algebra II, Solid Geometry, and Trigonometry. He sponsored the Future Teachers' Club and Honor "L" besides being in charge of scholarships.

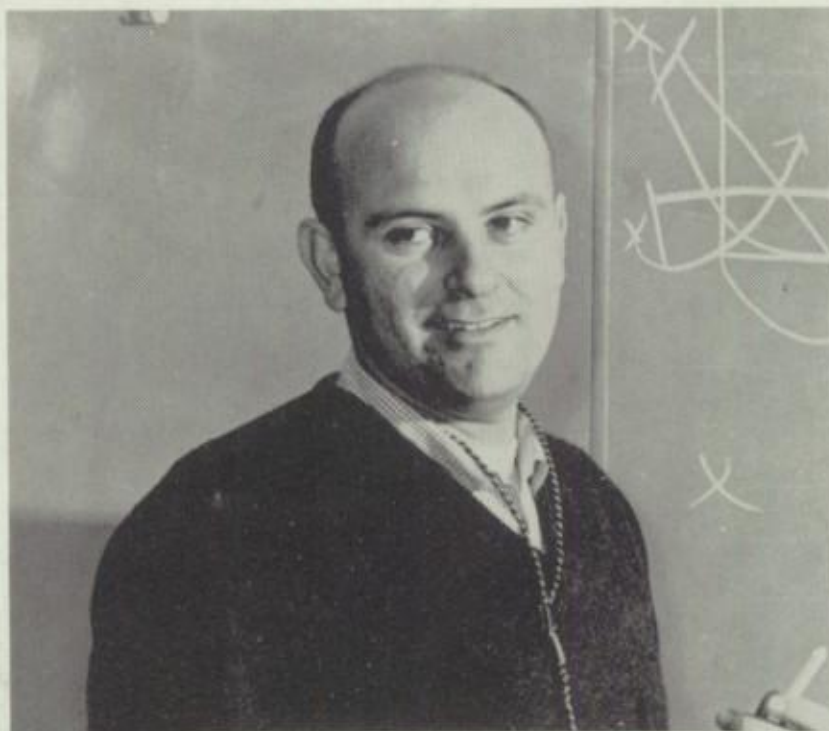

DEAN OF WOMEN

With a friendly smile and a kind word, Mrs. Elizabeth Milhaupt, Dean of Girls, kept Lincoln's problems at the minimum.

Besides counseling, Mrs. Milhaupt taught Girls' Physical Education, sponsored the White Caps—a group of future nurses—and was one of the advisors for Student Council.

In addition, Mrs. Milhaupt kept the school calendar.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

"... as the students establish a High School." Guiding the students as they met the challenge of building a school, were the Student Body Officers and Representatives. Through this group passed the scholastic, athletic, social, and behavior standards of the school. In these high goals, Lincoln embedded its roots and became a real high school.

Only through tedious hours on the part of this group—with the help of the faculty, students, and community—has the Student Government of 1957-58 successfully achieved its projects this year. It is they who have lent their hands so willingly in putting on these plans who deserve the deep appreciation of all.

It is a great honor for these students to receive these high positions of serving the Student Body, and they wish to thank the students who selected them: and they hope that they have fulfilled the trust the student body placed in their hands.

SENIORS

Theirs is the story of a school. This—the class of 1958—began in a small corner of the College of the Pacific campus and three years later the veil was lifted: their mirage was real! And from this mirage rose the towers of a school that was soon to be among the best.

The “founders” endured the problems of transportation, incomplete facilities—but, as the Seniors stepped off the graduation platform singing for the last time the familiar strains of our Alma Mater, they knew it was all worth it.

It all started on the C.O.P. Campus . . .

On a small corner of the College of the Pacific campus, it all began. The Seventy-six founders became the first alumni; the school became Lincoln High.

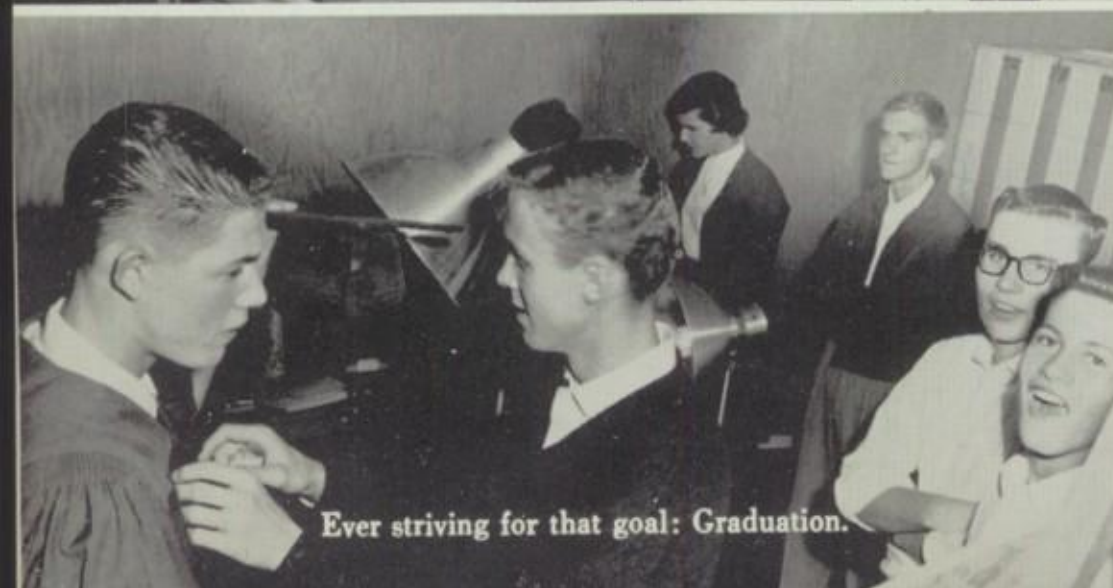

After working together to establish a high school, the Seniors graduated knowing their work was well done. They had established a High School outstanding in every phase of competition.

Three years later Lincoln High was a reality.

The Seniors joined together in all activities and set the traditions . . .

Ever striving for that goal: Graduation.

But eventually the end drew near with the memorable Prom, Ditch Day, and Commencement exercises.

JUNIORS

After three years of following the leaders, the Junior class sees their long-awaited-for goal, being Seniors, in view. They helped to build a school on the COP campus and joined with full-powered zest and enthusiasm to establish a high school in the green buildings.

Their main project of the year was the Prom presented in May. The Juniors sponsored fund-raising projects, but the Junior Class Breakfast was their big money-making event. With Mr. Swagerty as Chief Chef, a delicious menu of "ham 'n eggs" was served to all comers.

Finally the big night came. After the Senior banquet and the twirling formals had gone, leaving only a barren room with floating decorations falling gracefully to the floor, they truly deserved a "pat on the back."

As graduation night grew nearer, the Juniors experienced mixed emotions of fright and joy because they would finally be Seniors—the superior beings!

SOPHOMORES

Not yet upperclassmen, but definitely not the "lowest," was the position of the Sophomores. They first made their presence known by tormenting the Frosh and building up tension for the Initiation. Later in the year, the Class presented the "Night Edition," a dance to help finance the Lincolnian. One of the more successful skits at the Band Frolic was "Texas-Tales"—a satire on television—acted out by this enthusiastic group.

But more than just sponsoring presentations for the school, the class stood firmly in the background, pushing the spirit of Lincoln to the top—the spirit that has given Lincoln wins in the athletic, scholastic, and extracurricular branches of high school life.

Today they are Sophomores; yesterday they were Freshmen; and tomorrow they will be Juniors . . . soon Lincoln High will be in their capable hands.

FRESHMEN

September 10, 1957, marked a red-letter day for 152 new members of Lincoln High School, the "Freshman" class. For the first few weeks, we Freshmen were lost "babes in the woods," keeping both eyes open for our tormentors—the upperclassmen. All this summed up by a situation remembered by all, INITIATION.

But after a month or so of high school life we gradually resumed our place of being in the student body. Soon we began to realize our position was one of high standing, even though we were the "lowest." We would have the distinction of being the first class to complete the first four years at the "new" Lincoln High School.

Freshmen were eager and willing participants: their school spirit was unequalled. Frosh were active in everything—sports, spirit, student organizations, and student council. It's been estimated that of all the classes, the Freshmen lead the field in noise, cheering that is.

So no matter what insinuations and comments are made about the Freshmen, when it comes to spirit, participation, and just plain common sense, 152 will shout out in hearty tones, "Yea, Freshmen!"

LINCOLNIAN

John Apgar, Feature Editor; Ren Wakefield, Subscriptions; Charlotte Wade.

This was the first year Lincoln High had had a printed paper, and everyone was very excited about it. The Lincolnian Staff was responsible for all phases of production—reporting, editing, typing, layout—before they sent it to the printers.

Supervising all this were Barbara Joy, Editor, and Mr. Browne, Advisor. The Lincolnian was published bi-monthly for the last semester of the school year.

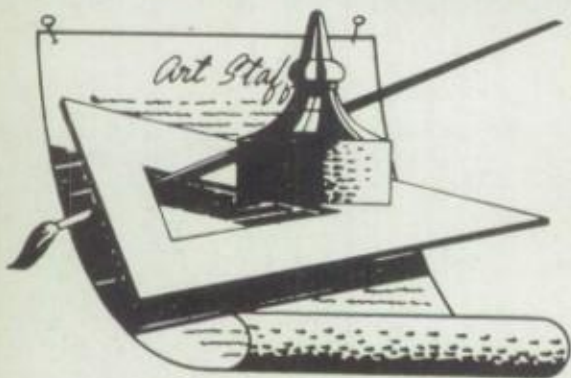

ADVERTISING STAFF: Prudy Webb, Sally Brown, Marilyn Hobbs, Judy Riddle, Karen Lange. Seated: Judy Wadsmuth, Assistant Advertising Manager.

Roger Schrimp, Photographer; Doug Wilhoit, Distribution Manager; Linda Stice, News Editor.

A R T

Under the direction of Mr. Charles Hess, the art department, besides its regular classes, was very active in contests this year. There were three entrants in the Haggin Art Gallery contest—JoElla Brayton, Rae Archibald, and Neil Cowan. In the "Safe Driving Through Better Vision" poster contest, Rae Archibald and Susan Braley were two of the three county winners, and Linda Plaw won the Bank of America award for our school.

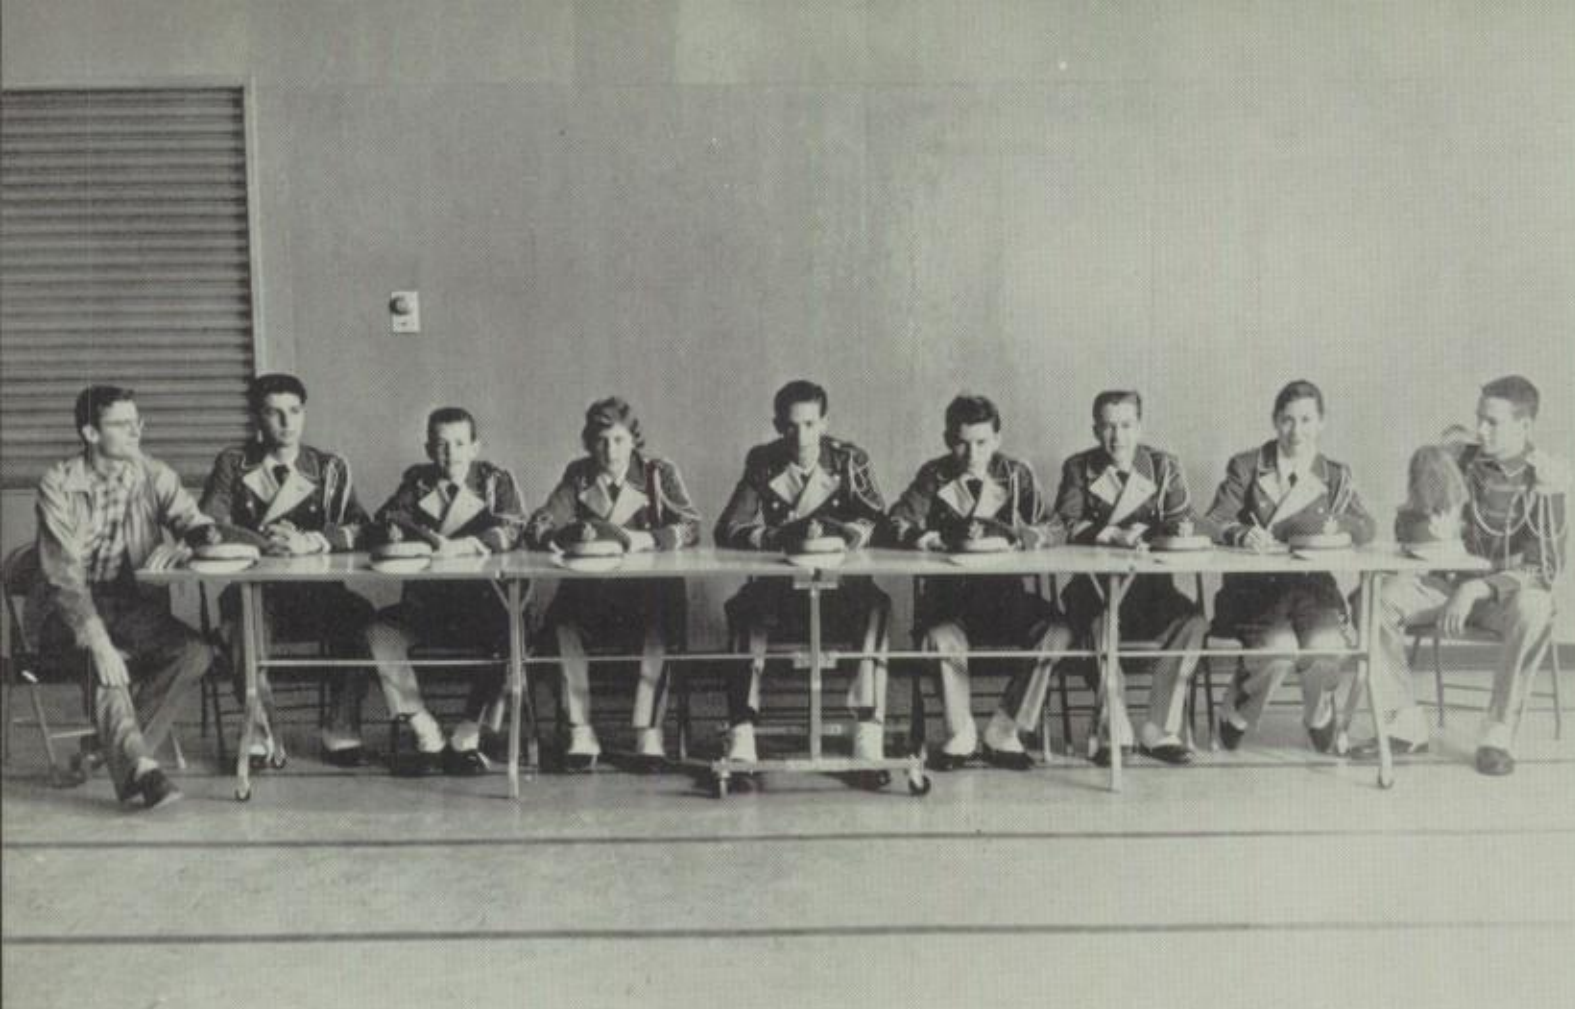

Aside from these contests, individual members of the art classes found time to create many effective posters for dances, rallies, and athletic events.

BAND COUNCIL—
Left to right: Mr. Robert Fairchilds, Eugene Conti, John Apgar, Diane Stockwell, Tom Barnett, Ron Russell, John Howell, Carol Marlette, Richard Clark, Chairman.

The largest band in Lincoln High School's history contributed more than their share to the success of many school functions during the year. They played at almost every football and basketball game and helped tremendously in building up the school spirit.

Aside from playing at games, they added the musical touch to many of the rallies and assemblies.

In March the music and dramatic departments put on a Band Frolic which was enjoyed by a large audience.

ORCHESTRA MEMBERS—

BACHELOR'S HONEYMOON

by JOHN STAPELTON

A secret marriage involving an estate is enough to cause headaches, but when two babies are really grown-up teen-agers, the plot thickens.

Samson Bachelor marries Lettie Lamb, who used to be on the stage. Mr. Bachelor has two daughters by a previous marriage and he has told Lettie that they are just babies. However, both the daughters, Polly and Molly, are 17! Samson has to keep the girls away from Lettie, and his sister Minerva, to whom his father left control of all the money. Minerva could cut him off without a cent if he married against her will.

These were the circumstances that surrounded and captivated the audiences of Lincoln High Drama Department's first presentation on February 20 and 22. Bachelor's Honeymoon, acted out in such a manner that the audiences lived for the next moment, turned out to be the "howl-arious" success of this, or any season.

FORENSICS

Lincoln's first Forensic team did an outstanding job for beginners. Pam Smith achieved several first places with her interpretations of the "Tele Tale Heart" and "The Waltz."

Marilyn Holappa wrote an outstanding oration on John Wilkes Booth. Sharon Hamilton and Ginger Fox did very well in dramatic interpretation also.

The debate teams of Brayton-Joy, and Murphy-Downard, made the semi-finals in their first tournament and the Brayton-Joy team captured second place in the Ripon tournament.

As the year drew to a close, the speakers worked feverishly and tried very hard to make it to the state tournament in Santa Barbara.

Our Student Store was first organized last year. It started out as a small cubbyhole where soft drinks and various food products were sold, and has grown into a full-scale operation, serving all of Lincoln High.

Under the supervision of a board of directors, the store maintains five different departments which carry on the activities of the store. These departments—sales, purchasing, advertising, accounting, and maintenance—not only serve a usefulness to the student body, but they also give students a chance to obtain experience in practical business.

This year's chairman, Eddie Grogan, has spearheaded membership drives, establishment of a constitution, and many other measures beneficial to the store and student body.

The profits of the Student Store are used to expand and improve the store itself, and to bolster the student body fund. In its first year of operation, the store's assets totaled $1,083.09.

This year the store is making plans for the building of a portable store and the eventual addition of a permanent store. At present the store occupies a store-room off the locker hall. With the advisory help of Mr. Koyl, business teacher, the Student Store provides a service to the student body, and at the same time, trains interested members in business.

The Hi-Y, newly formed this year had as its advisor Mr. Sawtell. The organization is the teen-age boys' club sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. The club's activities included a dance at the Y.M.C.A., a basketball tournament, snow trip, roller skating party, dinners, and a trip to San Francisco. The club's purpose is "To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character."

Latin Club, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Alice Beighley, consisted of first, second, third, and fourth year Latin students. The members celebrated "Saturnalia," the Roman Christmas, with a pot luck dinner at the home of Patty Ott. Several of the members attended a convention of the California Chapter of the Junior Classical League in Los Angeles, with members Florence Brayton and Joan Joy serving as official delegates.

The club also participated in the Band Frolic, handling the publicity; they also had a booth at the carnival.

The club this year was sponsored by Mrs. Carolyn Clark, its Medical Auxiliary sponsor, and Mrs. Daly, its faculty advisor. The White Caps were organized to promote interest in medical professions. The club's activities included giving stuffed animals to the children's ward at the San Joaquin General Hospital, helping with the TB tests and eye examinations, a cookie sale, correspondence with nurses and doctors from other countries, and a baby sitting program.

The club, also known as Honor "L," officially became a member of C.S.F. in February when it received its charter from Miss Brown, president of the state association. The club met under the sponsorship of Mr. Donald Buck and Mrs. Alice Beighley. The requirements for membership were a total of ten points of three A's and one B on semester grades. To attain this goal the students had to keep their noses to the grindstone.

The Safety Council was organized for the first time this year to promote safety in the school. The council was a branch of the San Joaquin County Safety Council and the two groups worked closely in sponsoring county-wide and school activities.

The Lincoln High Key Club was organized this year, and it became actively engaged in school service. Soon after the club's formation it published "The Lincoln Key," our student directory. Club members also edited and published the student handbook.

Counseled by Mr. Roy Gereau and sponsored by the Greater Stockton Kiwanis Club, the Lincoln High Key Club has quickly established itself as a progressive organization.

The club, organized last year, is again under the sponsorship of Mr. Donald Buck. The members attended a luncheon and a panel discussion at Stockton College, which was to demonstrate the various phases of education and to promote interest in it. The members also were given the chance to help the teachers with classes at the numerous elementary schools in the district. Some braver students even taught at the High School and Senior Elementary.

LINCOLN HIGH OBSERVATORY BUILT AT AN APPROXIMATE COST OF $4,000

Guest speakers on various subjects from Sputnik and missiles to X-rays and hypnosis were on the agenda of the Science Club when they met twice monthly on Wednesday evenings. Scientific films covering the topics in which the group was interested were also on the program for the year; every meeting was followed by refreshments.

For the Club's annual field trip, they went to Aerojet and the Atomic reactor.

The club also helped in the finance and construction of the observatory, which gave Lincoln High another distinction—the only high school in the Pacific West with an observatory.

Mr. Wes Peterson and Mr. Walt Harvey were the club sponsors.

2.

3.

1. Monday through Friday for 36 weeks, classes started promptly at 8:40. The day was constant work, even if the average students weren't lucky enough to taste the "fruits of their labor."
2. Classes were mostly interesting as the students listened to lectures on their "subjects."
3. Then there were those long drawn-out problems involving higher mathematics.
4. Teachers loved to give "little quizzes" to test your retainable knowledge (?).
5. Scientific education was accented this year—even to the point of dissecting!
6. But even after the toughest day, the bell rang exactly at 3:45.

6.

1. "Homework, homework, more homework! Every teacher thinks his is the only class we have!"
2. "The day's over, but we'll be greeting the morning sun with all this work."
3. Sometimes the "kind" teachers allowed a few seconds for study in class, if the students promised not to waste it.
4. "Term papers! All these books, the dictionary, and work just for one paper."
5. But there were a few minutes when you could discover the practical advantage of intellectual pursuits.
6. Even after all the complaining, it was a sad feeling to realize that on June 13 we left the campus and the 1957-58 school year was gone, never to return.

SNAP EVENTS

1. Winner of both the school and the regional Odd Fellow-Rebekah Lodge's U.N. youth pilgrim contest was Jean Joy. As an outstanding Junior, Joan will take the Youth Pilgrimage to the United Nations in New York.
2. How high Lincoln spirit soared this year! What fun we had hoisting our victims in effigy before we conquered them!
3. The Bank of America Awards honored Lincoln's most outstanding Seniors—Gail LeBaron, mathematics and science, and Jo Ella Brayton, liberal arts which placed the girls in the regional contest and the chance of a $1,000 scholarship.
4. When the Key Club, the high school organization of Kiwanis, was instituted, community interest and acceptance of our school was shown. Key Club, and the School, plans to reciprocate this interest and to prove themselves worthy of this acceptance.
5. Lincoln's horizons were broadened when the Honor "L" was finally incorporated under the California Scholarship Federation. This linked us to many other schools in the West.

FRESHMEN

1. An over-all expression of "how-did-we-get-ourselves-into-this-mess" dons the faces of gloomy initiates as they await the oncoming ceremony.
2. "This too will pass, even if we Frosh are rank." Things begin to look up a little as the ceremony gets under way.

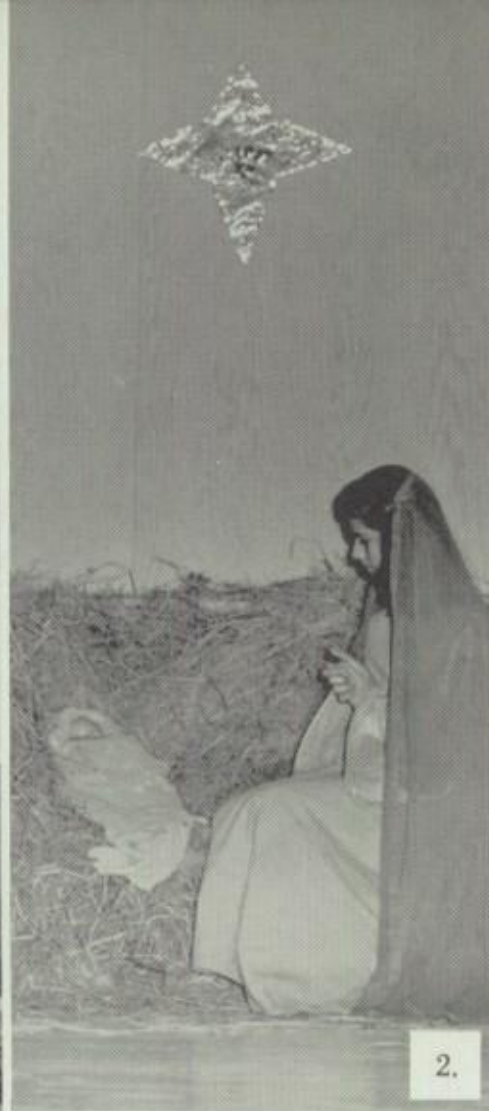

INITIATION

3. In the full swing of the memorable event, the Freshmen bearing signs of "I love Sophomores," "Frosh are Way Out," and "Freshmen, Ugh!" find themselves having a real ball, (rank though they may be!).
4. After the "ball" is over, many mixed emotions become evident, but a feeling of relief dominates all others . . . along with pride.

1. Jeff Hamilton and Larry Scott, the man in the robe and the soldier, were two of the stars of the Christmas play, written by Mr. Nick's classes.
2. Diana Kinsel, climaxing the Christmas assembly, is depicting the Nativity Scene.
3. One of the High Notes of the year was the formal appearance of the Girls' Chorus at the Christmas Assembly.
4. The joint was jump'n when Ellen Parson and Susan Baker sang "Rock Around the Clock."
5. The pantomimist wearing the flirtish expression is none other than Hayden Price, captivating the audience with his interpretation of "John and Marcia."
6. "O Babe" echoed in the auditorium when this skit was performed by Pam Smith, Bill Ring, Joe Murphy, Tex Garrett, and Steve Wilson.
7. "And this here Kid named Romeo . . ." Who could forget Joe Murphy and his adaptation of a hill-billy's Romeo and Juliet.

2.

4.

5.

1. "Would you please repeat the question?" Neil Cowan read the questions while contestant Larry Hulsey supplied the answers for a new Plymouth "Fury."
2. This was the "Typical Freshman Class" assembly; all the other classes presented their skits at later assemblies.
3. "You have 30 seconds to think over your answers." These are contestants for the "Fury": Larry Hulsey (winner), Jeanne Farnham, Sam Parrish, Rose Marie Downey, and Sharon Decker.
4. "Here's the reason for 24-inch TV screens"—Big Bill Ring who made his Lincoln High debut in the best assembly of the year. Mr. Ring is the star of the local TV station, KOVR.
5. Our assemblies, good as they were, eventually came to an end, and back to class.
6. "Water . . . water . . . cool, clear WATER." shouted Bill Ring, Jr. as he crawled across the stage for a glass of that refreshing substance.

DANCES

"Gosh, my feet hurt!" This was the familiar refrain that followed each dance. Those who attended Lincoln's dances will recall the witty themes and entertainment, not to mention the live music that was presented at each dance.

Perhaps one of the main impressions received at the dances were the highly original decorations that were arranged in pleasing order around the multi-purpose room. If you had a flair for colors, you were not disappointed.

For those who enjoy reminiscing, the dances will serve as excellent material consisting of decorations, blisters, bliss, and a lot of fun.

DEDICATION

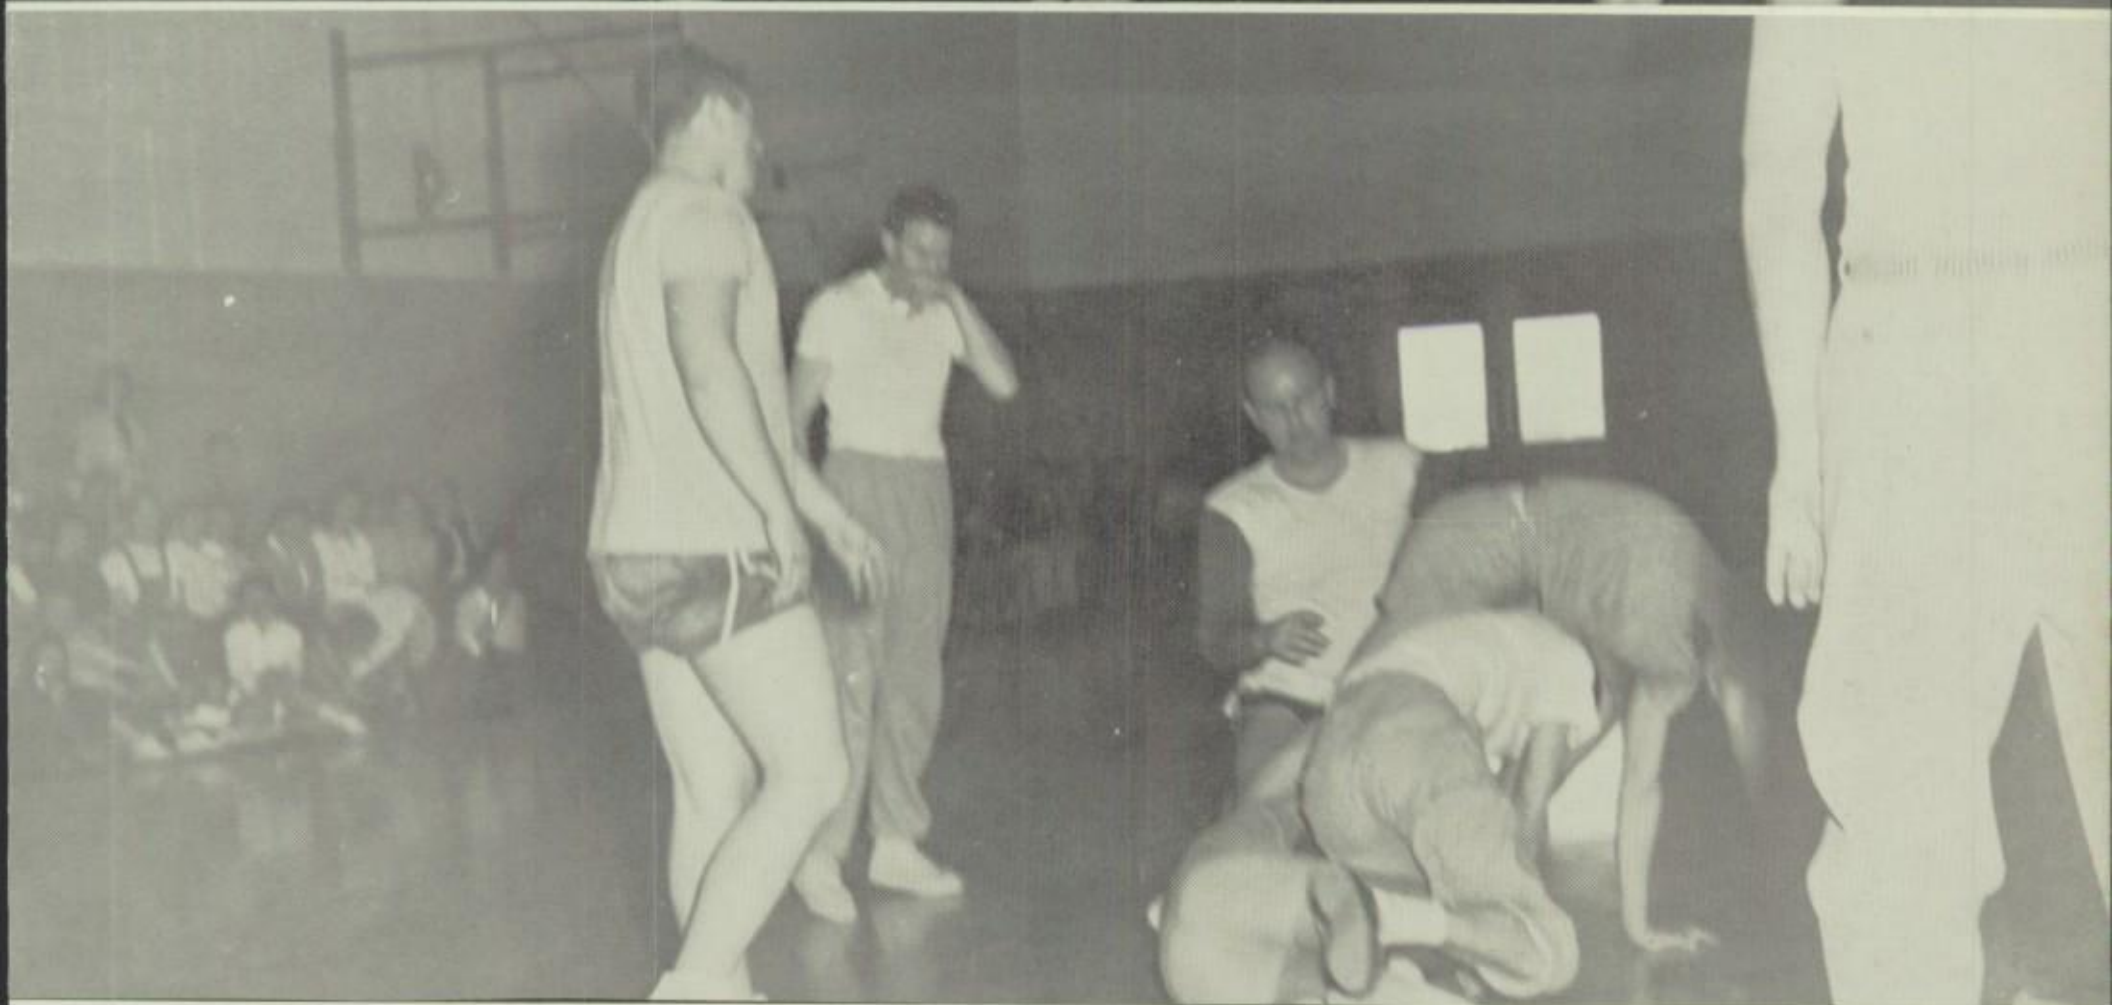

On February 7, 1958, the keys were presented to District Superintendent Mable Barron by the Board of Trustees, and LINCOLN HIGH was really ours!

Our school consists of 77,280 square feet of building area set on a 24-acre site, at a total cost of $1,342,495. The project was given final approval on January 10, 1957. Ground was broken a week later, with more than two thousand spectators present.

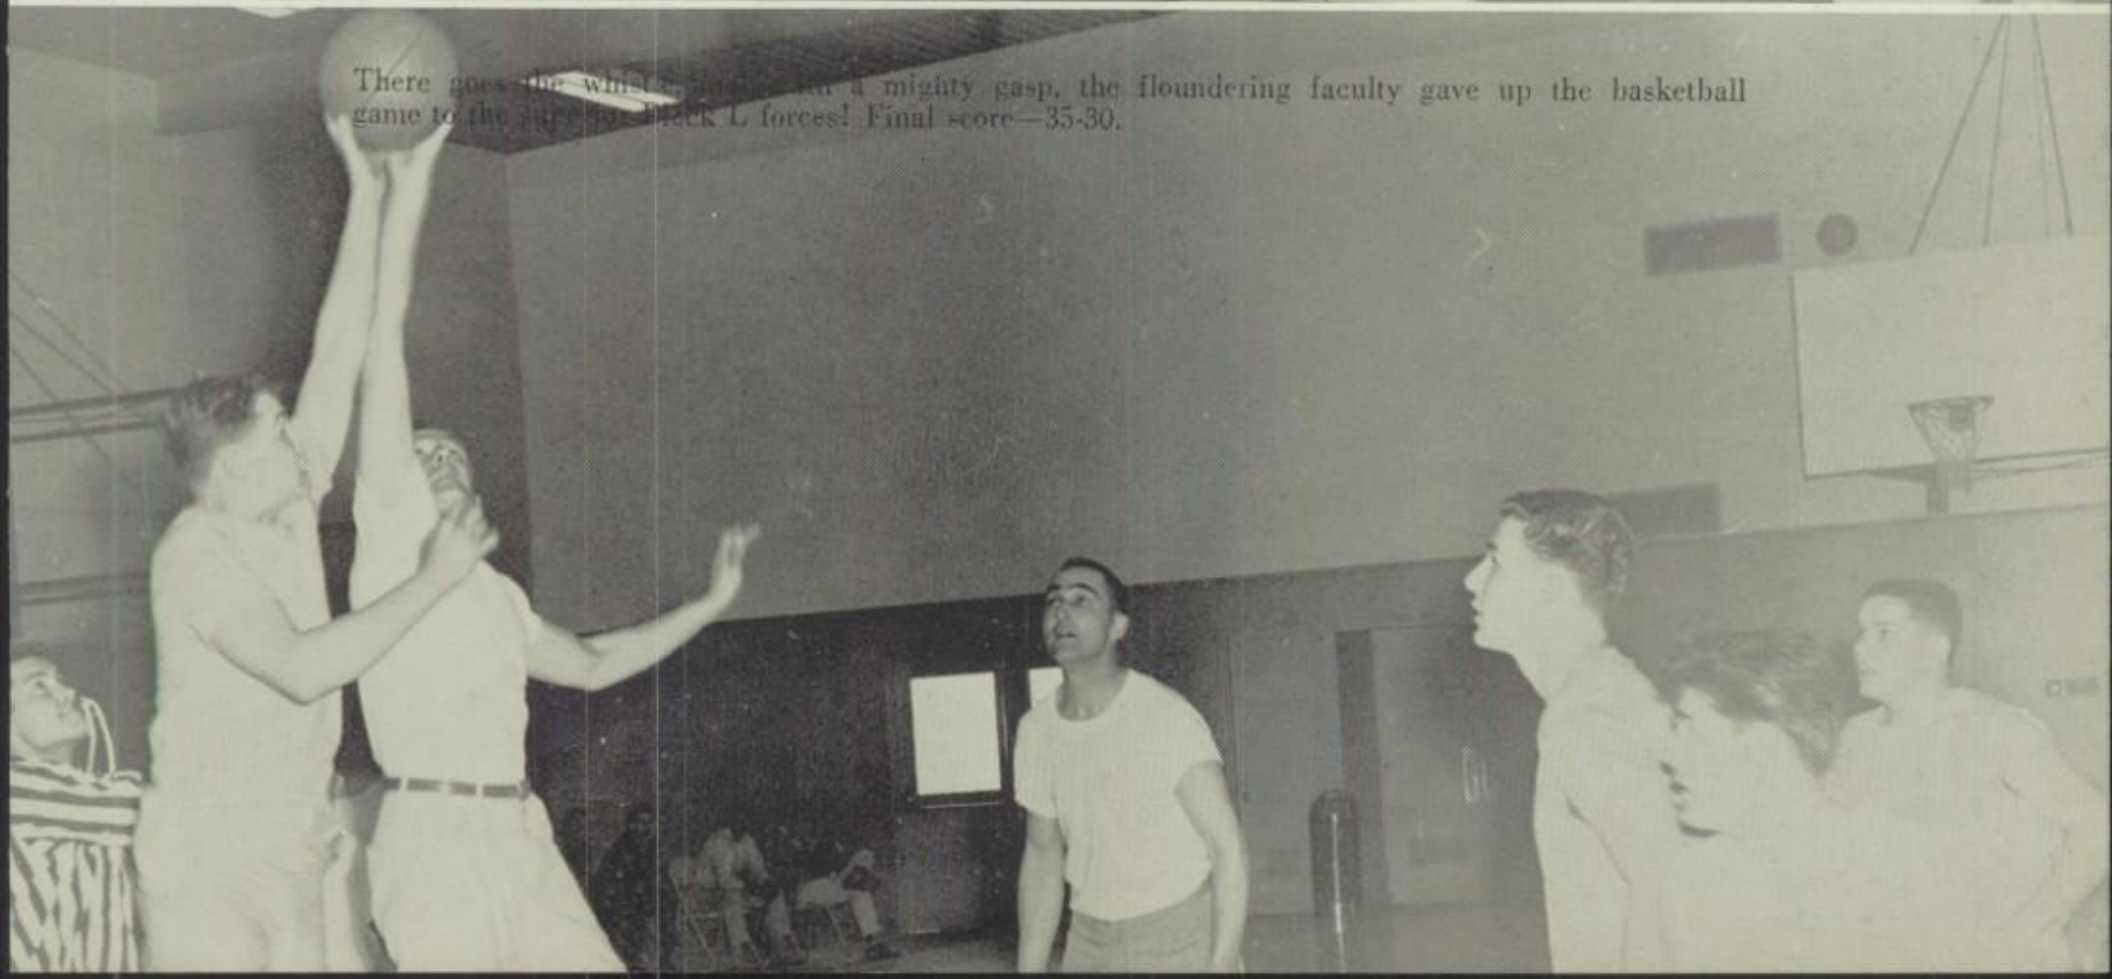

We, the students of Lincoln High, point with pride to the buildings which constitute the best high school around, and thank the Board, District Officials, State Committees, School Staff, and especially the community for their planning, spirit, and faith in us and our school.

FACULTY VS. BLOCK "L"

There goes the whistle! With a mighty gasp, the floundering faculty gave up the basketball game to the sure-footed BLOCK L forces! Final score—35-30.

AROUND THE

To begin with, we just mounted a rooters bus for the Jackson game—but ended up by seeing the world. Here we see the conductor preparing to take us "Around the World" in music, song, and dance.

Swooping down Texas way where Matt Dillon is shot, Joe comes home, and someone gets the Old Maid, we find ourselves lost.

The current carries us to Scotland where the G.A.A. girls come across the magical village of Brigadoon.

Then it is on to Germany where the Chorus sings its folk tunes and a German Band comes to joke and play.

WORLD

Our bus is swept out to sea and washed ashore on a cannibalistic Carribbean isle. After a native song-dance festival, we lose a few riders by a quaint native custom. (Student Council)

On to Japan where we watch a Japanese legend of Madame TseTse Fly come to life, with slight modernization by the Key Club.

The trip finally ends but we find that the Senior girls have been left on a South Sea island. But alas, they can't "wash that Lincoln out of their hair" because they miss their "Honeybun."

We then join a caravan that takes us deep into the heart of Egypt and lovely Harem girls dance for us. (Juniors)

Sadly we leave, and we find ourselves in Siam as the drama class tells of two Siamese cats.

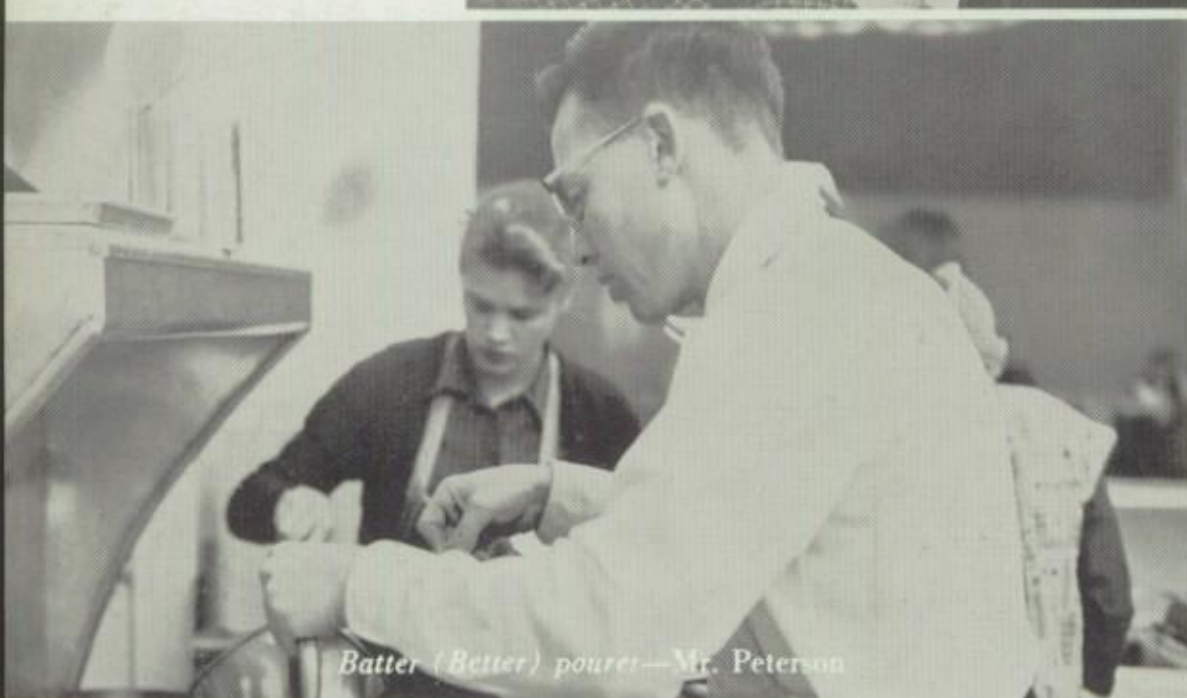

Backstage we find a few who planned our trip including Mr. Nicolaisen, Drama Director; Bill Ring, Student Director; Mr. Fairchilds, Music Director; and Mr. Hess, Art Director.

To Juniors: Good time.. FOOD, and MONEY!!!

Actually, it is delicious.

JUNIOR CLASS BREAKFAST

Up in the morning to raise money for the Prom: this was the Junior Class! With Mr. Swagerty as "Chief Cook" and Mr. Peterson "cooking," the Juniors presented a scrumptious breakfast of what you desired, with music in the background.

TROJAN SPIRIT

"Come on everybody, let's really yell," shouted head cheerleader DeeDee Dawson and the spirit-raising rallies were off. Spirit began to grow as the band struck a lively tune and the auditorium was filled with the familiar Trojan yells and songs. After a rousing and entertaining rally, everyone was ready for the game . . .

Pom-poms waved and voices shouted as the Trojan enthusiasts urged their teams—be they football, basketball, or baseball—on to VICTORY. In the length of a season, the teams and the spirit improved to put Lincoln firmly on top.

After the final score showed Lincoln ahead and throats were hoarse, the beautiful strains of the "Alma Mater" resounded as the student body and their supporters joined together singing the Lincoln Hymn.

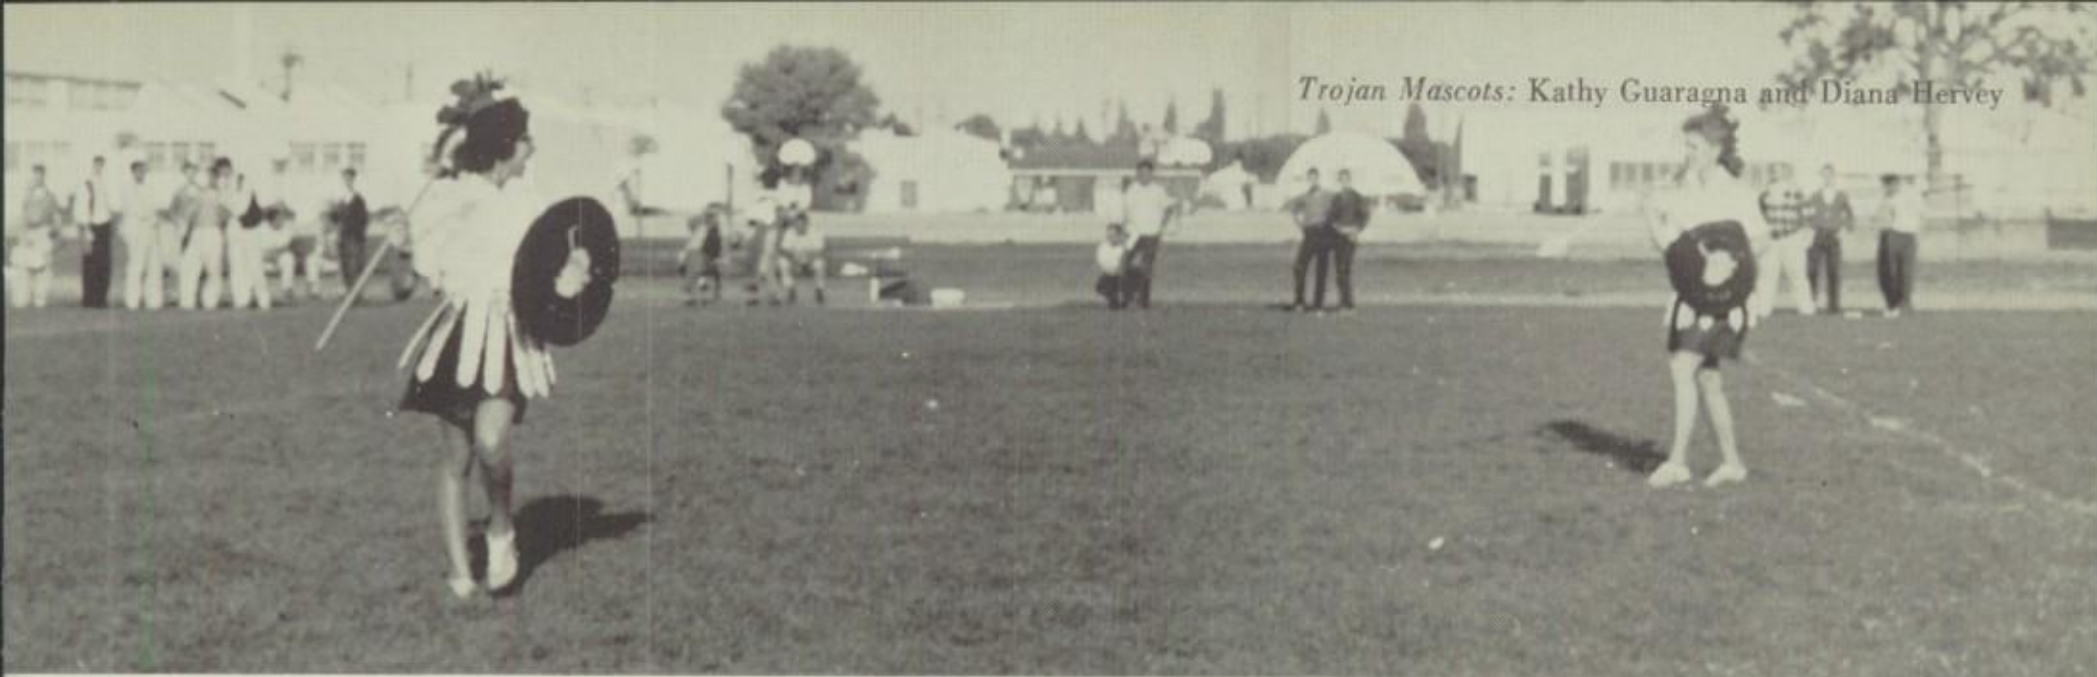

Standing behind this spirit, the real Lincoln High, were the co-ordinators who arranged the spirit-raising events: Rally Commissioner Neil Cowan, the yell and song leaders, the band, the newly organized Pep Club, and the SCHOOL!

G. A. A.

Officers: "Deller," Miss Jones, "Doddle."

The Girls' Athletic Association made its debut when it presented the "Frog Leap" after the Calaveras Football game and since then has remained in the headlines. To entertain at the best rally, they did the "tee hee, chuckle, chuckle" skit, "Dummy, Dummy, Who's Got the Dummy," or "Little Nell." The most outstanding scene in the Band Frolic was their Scottish "Brigadoon," which was as dainty and gay as the heather, fog and highland fling.

As for the athletic end of G.A.A., the girls participated successfully in badminton, speed-a-way, volleyball, and baseball sport days. They also had the GREAT honor of conquering Stagg High for a volleyball championship. The girls competed among themselves in the regular gym sports and covered an advanced course in First Aid.

The climax of the year was their banquet where the awards were presented . . . Or was it the shower they gave for Miss Jones?

Composed of varsity letter stars, the club's highlight was the annual "Backwoods Ball," done in the back, back style of the hillbillies.

In March the Block L cleverly arranged for school to be dismissed early and they took over. The faculty members dressed appropriately and the annual "Faculty vs. Block L" (in the gym, not the classrooms) basketball game was on. All the members, except for the varsity basketball players, met the challenge and the Block L was again successful; they defeated the faculty.

Advisors for this group were Coaches Frank Bevilaqua and Dewey Tompkins.

GREATEST SEASON IN HISTORY

Lincoln High Trojans walked over every team in the Mother Lode League, except Jackson, to take second place with a 5-1 record.

Cavaleras, Tuolumne, Bret Harte, and Amador fell under the driving power of the Lincoln team.

THREE TRO-MEN MADE THE FIRST STRING in the ALL-STAR Mother Lode team. Dennis Heikka made the quarterback spot; Jeff Starr, center; and Lester Bosch, guard. Jim Horst and Rae Archibald also made the team.

LINCOLN TIED THEIR ARCH-RIVELS from across the way, St. Mary's, in a thriller that almost found them walking away winners.

Jeff Starr was chosen outstanding on the line, and Dennis Heikka was chosen as outstanding in the backfield.

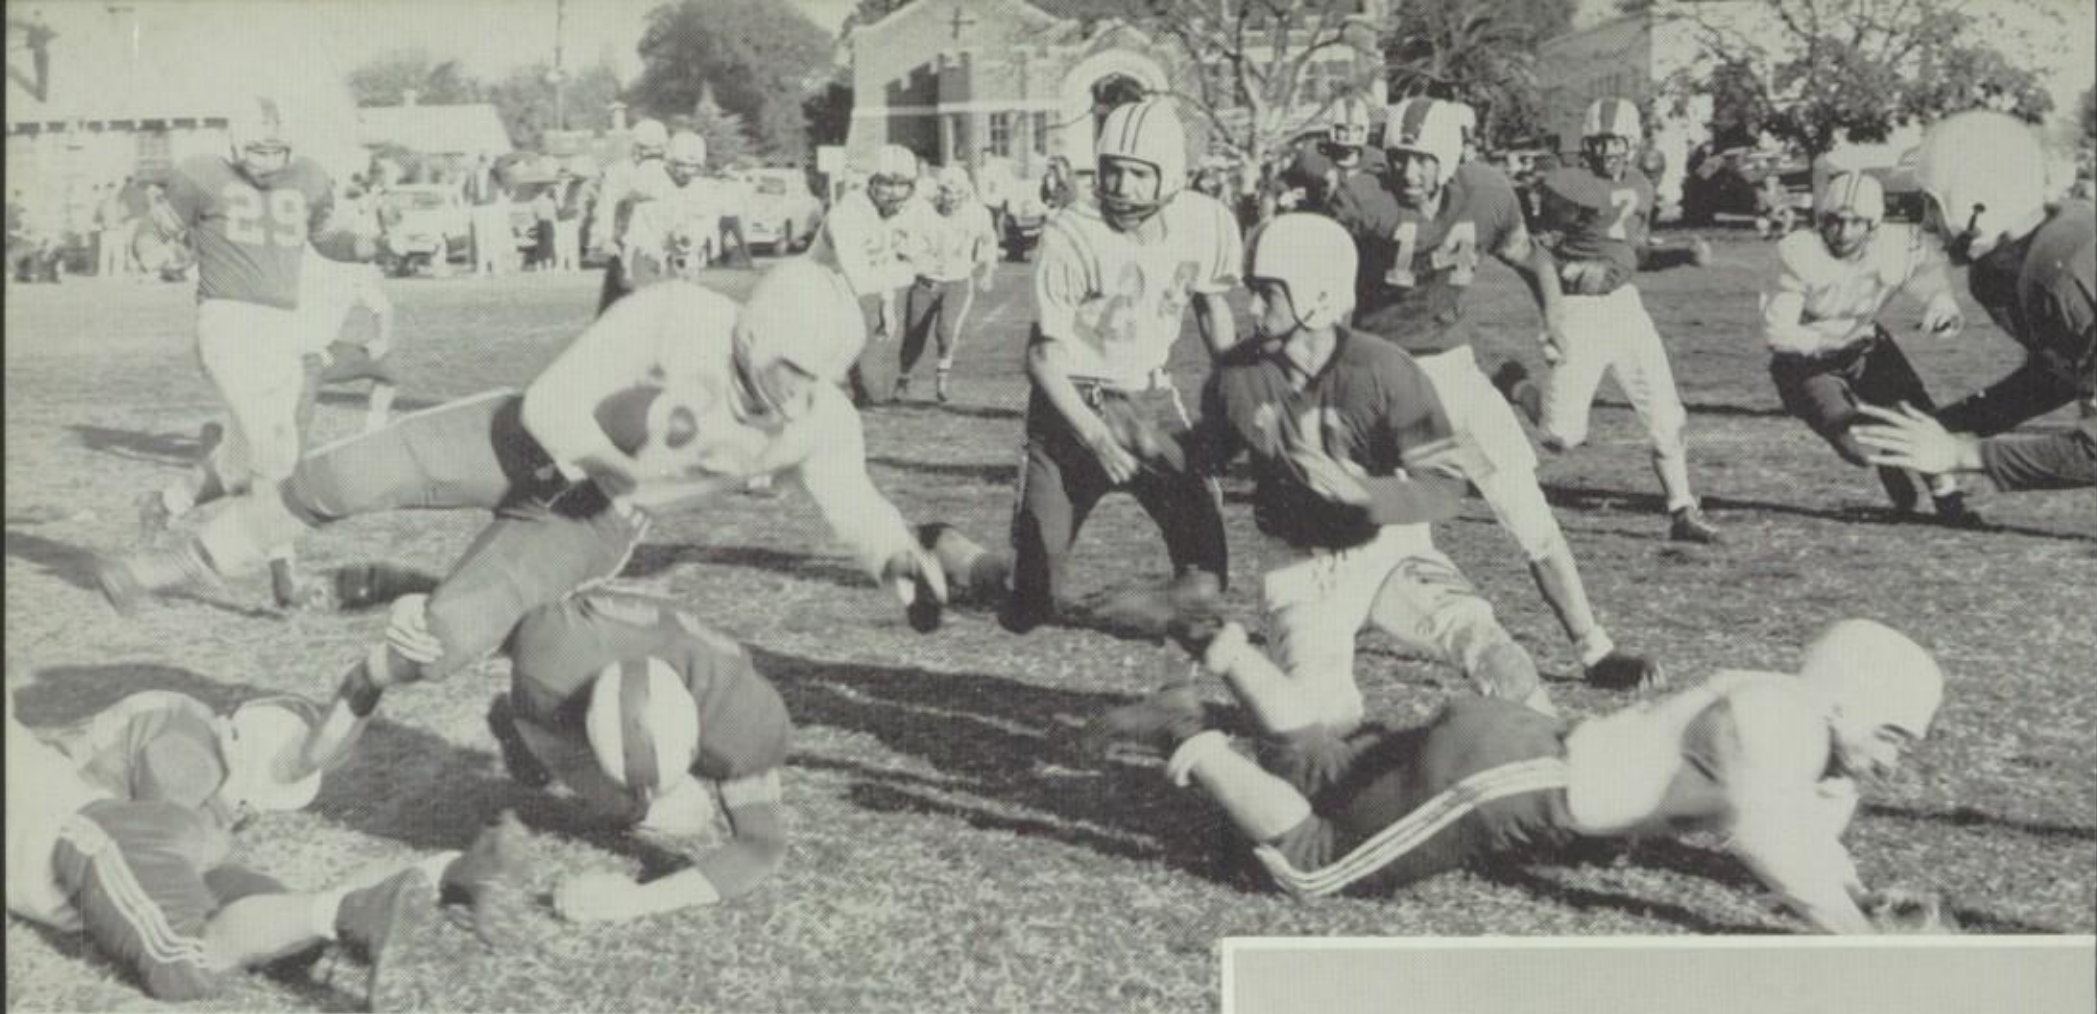

The season record was 6-2-1.

The Faculty:

"I may look busy, but I'm just confused."

(No criticism, of course!)

Guess who knew their picture was being taken?

Who told you Seniors never studied?

The boys are worried about the coming game?

Did you ever know WHO was going to show up at assemblies?

*Students get the yearbooks,
The High School gets the fame;
The printer gets the money . . .
But it's the staff that gets the

FAREWELL

We are now at the end of an era which will never return. In the years to come, Lincoln will grow on the foundations we have set for it—grow and become everything we have hoped and planned for. This era is gone and only with the keys, this annual, can we open it once more for remembering and reminiscing.

“To Lincoln, Alma Mater,
This Hymn we now do raise;
For every son and daughter
Thine honor more to praise.
We'll treasure every memory,
Recalling how and why
Thy Wisdom lives eternally,
Forever Lincoln High . . .”
